Making an Impact with Meaningful Job Opportunities

Allen on the job at Casey's.

Early this month, Allen W., a JobOne Careers client, started his employment with Casey's General Store. Casey's is famous for pizza with some of the best ingredients, homemade crust, and more cheese than you can ask for. Allen will now be making those pizzas for you if you visit him in Blue Springs on South 7 Highway. We had the opportunity to buy his first pie, and were impressed as he took care to make it look as good as it tasted. We are excited for Allen as he starts this new venture. His goals of owning his own truck, going to college, and helping his church can be accomplished in his new position. Congratulations, Allen! We're rooting for you.

A New Way to Connect

Getting to the heart of the JobOne story

On a fairly regular basis I have been 'blogging' about a variety of topics. Blogging is a new concept for me and I'm doing my best to make the content interesting and relevant to what we do at JobOne. I hope you find my posts informative and sometimes thought provoking. You can check out these blogs at our newly redesigned website www.job1one.org or click here for the blog.

There are a couple of great reasons to blog. First, given the size and scope of what we do and the how spread out we are in various locations, this provides an additional opportunity for communication and information sharing. Of equal importance is that the information shared on the blog will improve our internet profile. The more articles and posts that are focused on the things that we do at JobOne, the more likely it is that over time consumers searching for services that we offer, such as packaging and assembly or document destruction, will find JobOne highly ranked in the search engine results. The goal in all this is to increase our exposure and online presence leading
